Continuity of Government (COG) Readiness Analysis Project Report

Introduction

Continuity of Government (COG) is the ability of a governing body to continue to function during and after an emergency. While related to Continuity of Operations (COOP) planning, the focus of COG planning should be to ensure the ability of the governing body to operate and continue to set policy and authorize expenditures during emergencies. This project looked at the existing Constitutional and Statutory provisions regarding local governments. City charters were also reviewed. City and county managers were interviewed to gain an understanding of what plans are in place to ensure the continuity of government. Local governments' emergency response plans and codes were looked at. Continuity guidance circulars published by the federal government were reviewed as well as policies from other states. Areas of concern were identified and suggestions were formulated for local governments to consider.

Executive Summary

Nevada's Constitution and statutes have, for the most part, sufficient provisions to allow local governing bodies to continue to operate during and after an emergency. There are provisions in place that allow for governing bodies to meet at other than their normal facilities. There are also exemptions to the noticing requirements of the Open Meeting Law for emergency meetings of a governing body. The most critical concern that needs to be addressed is instances where there is a lack of a quorum. There appear to be no procedures that allow a governing body to adjust the number of members needed for a quorum unless the emergency that reduced the number of members available is a result of an enemy attack. Additionally, there are no provisions in place for the timely appointment of new members to a governing body. While there are provisions to allow other elected officials to serve as a governing body if necessary following an enemy attack these provisions are not clear and may not resolve the quorum issue for most cities. Legislative action will be needed to resolve these issues. Local governments should consider the development and adoption of Continuity of Government (COG) plans. These COG plans, while closely associated with Continuity of Operations (COOP) plans, should be stand-alone documents that address the specific needs of local governing bodies to ensure they can continue to operate during and after emergencies. At a minimum these plans should address procedures for the notification of governing body members that an emergency exists, contain provisions to ensure the safety of governing body members, identify alternate meeting locations and have contingency plans for transportation to these locations, contain a checklist of the supplies and materials necessary to conduct meetings of the governing body and contain provisions for alerting the media of any emergency meetings and for communicating with the public.

Continuity of Government (COG) Readiness Analysis Project Report

Nevada's Cities and Counties

The Nevada Constitution contains several provisions that allow for the creation of counties and cities and help to define what authorities they have. The manner in which cities and counties must operate and what duties and authorities they have and other guidance is contained in the Nevada Revised Statutes. Nevada's nine original counties were established by the Territorial Legislature on November 25, 1861. The first city to be incorporated in Nevada was Carson City which was incorporated in March 1875. Carson City was consolidated with Ormsby County in 1969 and is the only consolidated municipality in Nevada. There are currently 17 counties (including Carson City) and 18 cities in the state. Nevada has two types of cities, general law and charter. Eleven cities have adopted charters and the remaining 7 are general law cities. Carson City, while considered a county for legislative purposes, also has a charter and functions somewhat differently from the other counties.

Counties

Article 4 of the Nevada Constitution provides that there be a uniform system of county and township government (Section 25), how the boards of county commissioners are elected and what their duties are (Section 26) and specifies that county clerks, recorders, auditors, sheriffs, district attorneys and public administrators are elected offices and charges the Legislature with providing for their election and duties (Section 32). This section also specifies that county clerks shall be ex-officio Clerks of the Courts of Record and of the Boards of County Commissioners in and for their respective counties. It should be noted that the courts have ruled that the Legislature can enact statutes that apply only to certain counties if they are based on population statistics. One such ruling was issued in County of Clark v. City of Las Vegas (97 Nev. 260 (1981)). There are numerous statutes currently in place that apply only to counties with certain population ranges.

Title 20 of the Nevada Revised Statutes governs the operations of the counties. Chapter 244 provides for the number of members and the duties of the boards of county commissioners. Other chapters outline the duties and responsibilities of the county clerks, recorders, sheriffs, treasurers, assessors, auditors and comptrollers, district attorneys, public administrators and guardians, engineers, surveyors, constables, coroners and public defenders. The financing of public improvements, other county officers and employees and the formation of townships are also covered in

Cities

Article 8 of the Nevada Constitution addresses the formation of cities and towns. Specifically, Section 1 allows for special acts for municipal corporations. Section 8 allows for the adoption of a charter by a municipal corporation. Title 21 of the Nevada Revised Statutes contains statutes providing for the incorporation and disincorporation of cities and towns, allow for a commission form of municipal government and describes the duties of incorporated cities and towns. Chapter 269 of Title 21 includes provisions relating to unincorporated towns. Towns may have either an elected, semi-autonomous, town board or have a town advisory board that makes recommendations to the board of county commissioners that have ultimate responsibility for the town. The board of county commissioners may place a question on the ballot seeking voter approval to dissolve an elected town board.

Meetings of Governing Bodies

In order for a governing body to take action or carry out their responsibilities they must be able to meet. Requirements for meetings are contained in statute or in adopted city charters. A quorum, consisting of a majority of the members of the governing body, must be present in order for any action to be taken. At a minimum, all governing bodies are required to meet at least once a month. In practice, all governing bodies meet at least twice monthly. All meetings of local government governing bodies are subject to the provisions of the Open Meeting Law (NRS 241). Generally, notice of the meeting including the time and location of the meeting and an agenda that clearly identifies items on which action may be taken must be published three business days in advance of the meeting.

Statutes and city charters require that local governing boards adopt an ordinance setting the times and locations of regular meetings of the governing body. There are statutory and charter provisions in place that allow the Mayor of a city or the chair or vice-chair of a board of county commissioners to call a special meeting of the governing board. The noticing requirements of the Open Meeting Law apply to any special meeting called. Meetings of local governing bodies are generally held in the main government facility. Boards of County Commissioners are required to meet at least once a month at the county seat or within 10 of miles of the county seat. Additional meetings may be held elsewhere within the county provided that certain noticing requirements, including publication of the time and location of the meeting in a newspaper of general circulation in the county, are complied with. Interestingly, there are no specific references in statute to emergency meetings except for an exclusion to the noticing requirements of the Open Meeting Law contained in NRS 241.020. Procedures for calling an emergency meeting are not outlined in statute or in any city charter that we reviewed. Interestingly, several city charters contain provisions that allow for a “special” meeting to be held within 6 hours of being called. It is not clear if these “special meetings” qualify for the “emergency meeting” exclusion in NRS 241.020. In addition to complying with the noticing requirements of the Open Meeting Law, the city or county clerk, or their designee, must be available to attend and record the proceedings of the meeting. The city or district attorney or their deputy should also be in attendance. Many city charters expressly state that the city attorney attend all meetings of the city council. NRS 252.170 states that the district attorney must be present when the county commission is engaged in auditing accounts and claims and give them legal advice whenever asked.

Emergency Procedures

A declaration that an emergency exists is required in order for a local government to utilize any emergency procedures that are available to them under Nevada law. Two questions that need to be answered are what constitutes an emergency and who can declare that an emergency exists. NRS 414.0345 defines what types of occurrences can be justification for the governor to declare an emergency. However, this declaration by the governor is issued when “in the determination of the Governor, the assistance of state agencies is needed to supplement the efforts and capabilities of political subdivisions to save lives, protect property and protect the health and safety of persons in this state, or to avert the threat of damage to property or injury to or the death of persons in this state.” Perhaps a better definition for local emergencies may be found in the “emergency meeting exclusion” to the noticing requirements of the Open Meeting Law found in NRS 241.020. Subsection 8 of this statute reads “As used in this section, “emergency” means an unforeseen circumstance which requires immediate action and includes, but is not limited to:

- (a) Disasters caused by fire, flood, earthquake or other natural causes; or
- (b) Any impairment of the health and safety of the public.

Continuity of Government (COG) Readiness Analysis Project Report

The answer to the question of who can declare that an emergency exists varies from one local government to the next. In some instances only the governing body, or the chair of the governing body, can declare an emergency. Some local governments have procedures that allow the city or county manager to declare that an emergency exists, however these declarations are often subject to verification by the governing board. Once an emergency has been declared the provisions of NRS 414.090(2) allow local governments to deviate from certain normal procedures in order to respond to the emergency. However, with the exception of the provisions of NRS 239C.260 which we will discuss shortly, the only statutory provision relating to the local governing bodies themselves is the noticing exemption contained in the Open Meeting Law. Other provisions regarding meetings of local governing bodies remain in place throughout an emergency. In order to meet and take action, including action in response to an emergency, a quorum of a governing body must be present. Additionally the city or county clerk and the city or district attorney must be present. Of course a functional place to hold the meeting is also needed.

Sections 7 and 8 of NRS 239C.260 allow for the continuation of the governing boards of counties and cities respectively. These sections allow for the reduction in the number of members that constitute a quorum if vacancies occur as a result of a “catastrophic emergency” and provide that other elected officials of the county or city can serve as the governing body if the entire board is rendered vacant as a result of the emergency. However, this statute was enacted in accordance with the provisions of Section 37 of Article 4 of the Nevada Constitution which allows the Legislature to make provisions for the continuity of government following an enemy attack. Sections 1 and 11 of the statute specifically refer to the Constitution. Section 11 reads, “As used in this section, “catastrophic emergency” means an emergency resulting from disasters caused by enemy attack, in accordance with Section 37 of Article 4 of the Nevada Constitution. As a result, these provisions allowing for the continuation of a governing board do not apply to any other emergency other than those caused by an enemy attack. The requirement that a quorum of a governing body be present for the body to take action, even following an emergency, is the critical factor regarding the continuity of government during and after an emergency.

Nevada Association of Counties

Because the need for a quorum is critical for a governing body to act a brief discussion regarding the processes in place for the filing of vacancies is warranted. Vacancies on a board of county commissioners are filled by appointment by the governor (NRS 244.040). The only restriction on the governor is that the appointee be of the same political party as the last person who held the seat. In the past, governors have asked the remaining members of the board for their input but there is no requirement for the governor to do so. Theoretically, the governor could act immediately to fill vacancies on a board of county commissioners. Vacancies on a city council may be filled by appointment by the remaining members of the council or by holding a special election. However, there must be sufficient members of the city council for a quorum before they could make an appointment or call for an election. There are no provisions that would allow for the governor, or anyone else for that matter, to appoint replacement members to a city council. There are no provisions that allow for temporary appointments to a board of county commissioners or a city council.

Continuity of Government (COG) Readiness Analysis Project Report

Conclusions

After researching the constitutional and statutory provisions regarding local governments, various city and county ordinances, city charters and interviewing several city and county managers the following conclusions can be drawn regarding the continuity of local governments in Nevada. First and foremost, all local governments should develop and adopt a “Continuity of Government” (COG) plan. This plan should be coordinated with the entities “Continuity of Operations” (COOP) plan but should be a stand-alone document. COG plans should include provisions to determine the status of governing board members following an emergency, identify and provision secondary meeting locations, transportation plans for the governing board members and other essential personnel such as the clerk and city or district attorney, contingency plans to house governing board members if necessary, procedures for informing the media of the times and locations of emergency meetings of the governing body, and procedures for communicating with the public.

Secondly, there appears to be adequate statutory provisions to allow for the continuity of local governing bodies if there are sufficient members to constitute a quorum. There is a need to amend current law or introduce new legislation to ensure that local governing bodies can continue to function during and after an emergency if there are not enough members available for a quorum following an event that is not the result of an enemy attack.

Concerns

The lack of “Continuity of Government” (COG) plans by local governments is a concern. It may be desirable for the Legislature or the State Division of Emergency Management to create guidelines for the creation and adoption of local government COG plans. These guidelines could be in the form of a template that local governments could tailor to their specific needs.

The Open Meeting Law contains a provision exempting emergency meetings of a local governing body from the usual noticing requirements however there are no provisions in statute defining, or authorizing, an emergency meeting. Regular and special meetings are addressed in statute and city charters but not emergency meetings. Several city charters contain provisions that allow for a special meeting to be held six hours after being called. It is unclear if these meetings qualify for the “emergency meeting” exemption of the Open Meeting Law.

The filling of vacancies on a city council is an area of concern. Normally vacancies are filled by appointment by the remaining members of the council or by special election. There are no provisions currently in place for a replacement to be appointed by the governor or some other authority if the city council lacks a quorum and is therefore unable to meet and fill the vacancy.

The lack of constitutional and statutory provisions regarding the reduction in the number of members of a governing body needed for a quorum following emergencies other than those caused by enemy attack is another concern. The rapid filling of vacancies, including the possibility of replacing an entire board, is also not addressed in statute for emergencies that are not a result of an enemy attack.

The current statute (NRS 239C.260) regarding the continuity of local governments including the succession of other elected officials to the governing body following an enemy attack needs clarification. The statute does not specify in what order other elected county officials would be appointed to serve as members of a county commission. The statute also provides that other elected city officials could serve as members of the city council; however, most cities only have one or two elected officials other than the mayor and council members.

Recommendations

The actions listed here may be desirable to ensure that local governments in Nevada can continue to function during and after an emergency.

- All local governments should develop and adopt “Continuity of Government” (COG) plans.
- Legislation needs to be enacted clarifying the authority of local governments to hold emergency meetings.
- Legislation similar to NRS 239C.260 should be enacted to allow for reduced quorums and succession to local governing bodies during and after emergencies not caused by enemy attack.
- The provisions of NRS 239C.260 need to be amended to clarify the order in which other elected county officials would serve as members of the board of county commissioners. Additionally, the provisions regarding the succession of other city elected officials to serve on a city council needs to be amended as there may not be a sufficient number of elected offices in a given city.
- Legislation authorizing the governor to make appointments to fill vacancies on a city council to ensure they are able to form a quorum.

Continuity of Government (COG) Readiness Analysis Project Report

This legislation may want to authorize temporary appointments during an emergency.

Nevada Revised Statutes

NRS 239C.260 Plan for continuation of state and local governmental operations in event of catastrophic emergency.

1. In accordance with the provisions of Section 37 of Article 4 of the Nevada Constitution, the Nevada Legislature hereby establishes a plan for continuation of state and local governmental operations. The provisions set forth in this section apply only in, and must be used in accordance with, the circumstances described in subsection 2.
2. In the event that this State or a portion of this State is stricken by a catastrophic emergency of such magnitude that, in the opinion of the Governor or, in the absence of the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, the existing provisions of the Nevada Constitution and the statutes of this State relating to the filling of vacancies in office are not able to provide for a sufficiently expedient continuity of government and temporary succession of power as a result of vacancies in office created by the catastrophic emergency, the provisions of subsections 3 to 10, inclusive, apply.
3. If a vacancy occurs in the Office of Governor as a result of a catastrophic emergency and none of the successors described in NRS 223.080 are able or available to act as Governor, the Legislature shall elect a person to serve as Governor. If the Legislature is not in session at the time the vacancy occurs, the Legislature may call itself into special session to elect a person to serve as Governor.
4. If vacancies occur in more than 15 percent of the seats in either house of the Legislature as a result of a catastrophic emergency:
 - (a) The remaining Legislators available for duty constitute the Legislature and have full power to act in separate or joint assembly by majority vote of those present;
 - (b) Any requirements for a quorum applicable to the Legislature must initially be suspended and must subsequently be adjusted as vacant offices are filled pursuant to NRS 218A.260; and
 - (c) If the affirmative vote of a specified proportion of members of the Legislature is required for the approval of a legislative measure, the same proportion of remaining members of the Legislature is sufficient for approval of that measure.
5. If vacancies occur in more than 15 percent of the positions held by justices on the Supreme Court as a result of a catastrophic emergency, the vacancies must be filled by appointment of the Governor.
6. If vacancies occur in more than 15 percent of the positions held by the district judges in any one judicial district as a result of a catastrophic emergency, the vacancies must be filled by appointment of the Supreme Court.
7. If vacancies occur on a board of county commissioners as a result of a catastrophic emergency:
 - (a) The remaining members of the board available for duty constitute the board and have full power to act by majority vote of those present; and
 - (b) Any requirements for a quorum applicable to the board must initially be suspended and must subsequently be adjusted as vacant offices are filled.
 - ↳ If a board of county commissioners is rendered entirely vacant as a result of a catastrophic emergency, such other elected officers of the county as may be available to serve on the board have full authority to act in all matters as a board of county commissioners.
8. If vacancies occur on a city council as a result of a catastrophic emergency:
 - (a) The remaining members of the council available for duty constitute the council and have full power to act by majority vote of those present; and
 - (b) Any requirements for a quorum applicable to the council must initially be suspended and must subsequently be adjusted as vacant offices are filled.
 - ↳ If a city council is rendered entirely vacant as a result of a catastrophic emergency, such other elected officers of the city as may be available to serve on the council have full authority to act in all matters as a city council.
9. If, during or following a catastrophic emergency, a majority of the members of a legislative body described in this section determines that, for purposes of safety or to address related concerns, the legislative body should meet at a location other than the location at which the legislative body ordinarily meets, the legislative body may arrange to meet at an alternate location.
10. After a catastrophic emergency has taken place, the Governor or, in the absence of the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, shall:
 - (a) Determine and announce publicly when conditions have normalized within this State or the portion thereof affected by the catastrophic emergency.

Continuity of Government (COG) Readiness Analysis Project Report

(b) In cooperation with the Secretary of State, develop procedures and a reasonable schedule for filling by regular election the various offices filled temporarily pursuant to this section.

11. As used in this section, “catastrophic emergency” means an emergency resulting from disasters caused by enemy attack, in accordance with Section 37 of Article 4 of the Nevada Constitution.

(Added to NRS by 2003, 2458)

NRS 241.020 Meetings to be open and public; limitations on closure of meetings; notice of meetings; copy of materials; exceptions.

1. Except as otherwise provided by specific statute, all meetings of public bodies must be open and public, and all persons must be permitted to attend any meeting of these public bodies. A meeting that is closed pursuant to a specific statute may only be closed to the extent specified in the statute allowing the meeting to be closed. All other portions of the meeting must be open and public, and the public body must comply with all other provisions of this chapter to the extent not specifically precluded by the specific statute. Public officers and employees responsible for these meetings shall make reasonable efforts to assist and accommodate persons with physical disabilities desiring to attend.

2. Except in an emergency, written notice of all meetings must be given at least 3 working days before the meeting. The notice must include:

(a) The time, place and location of the meeting.

(b) A list of the locations where the notice has been posted.

(c) An agenda consisting of:

(1) A clear and complete statement of the topics scheduled to be considered during the meeting.

(2) A list describing the items on which action may be taken and clearly denoting that action may be taken on those items.

(3) A period devoted to comments by the general public, if any, and discussion of those comments. No action may be taken upon a matter raised under this item of the agenda until the matter itself has been specifically included on an agenda as an item upon which action may be taken pursuant to subparagraph (2).

(4) If any portion of the meeting will be closed to consider the character, alleged misconduct or professional competence of a person, the name of the person whose character, alleged misconduct or professional competence will be considered.

(5) If, during any portion of the meeting, the public body will consider whether to take administrative action against a person, the name of the person against whom administrative action may be taken.

3. Minimum public notice is:

(a) Posting a copy of the notice at the principal office of the public body or, if there is no principal office, at the building in which the meeting is to be held, and at not less than three other separate, prominent places within the jurisdiction of the public body not later than 9 a.m. of the third working day before the meeting; and

(b) Providing a copy of the notice to any person who has requested notice of the meetings of the public body. A request for notice lapses 6 months after it is made. The public body shall inform the requester of this fact by enclosure with, notation upon or text included within the first notice sent. The notice must be:

(1) Delivered to the postal service used by the public body not later than 9 a.m. of the third working day before the meeting for transmittal to the requester by regular mail; or

(2) If feasible for the public body and the requester has agreed to receive the public notice by electronic mail, transmitted to the requester by electronic mail sent not later than 9 a.m. of the third working day before the meeting.

4. If a public body maintains a website on the Internet or its successor, the public body shall post notice of each of its meetings on its website unless the public body is unable to do so because of technical problems relating to the operation or maintenance of its website. Notice posted pursuant to this subsection is supplemental to and is not a substitute for the minimum public notice required pursuant to subsection 3. The inability of a public body to post notice of a meeting pursuant to this subsection as a result of technical problems with its website shall not be deemed to be a violation of the provisions of this chapter.

5. Upon any request, a public body shall provide, at no charge, at least one copy of:

(a) An agenda for a public meeting;

(b) A proposed ordinance or regulation which will be discussed at the public meeting; and

(c) Subject to the provisions of subsection 6, any other supporting material provided to the members of the public body for an item on the agenda, except materials:

(1) Submitted to the public body pursuant to a nondisclosure or confidentiality agreement which relates to proprietary information;

Continuity of Government (COG) Readiness Analysis Project Report

- (2) Pertaining to the closed portion of such a meeting of the public body; or
- (3) Declared confidential by law, unless otherwise agreed to by each person whose interest is being protected under the order of confidentiality.
 - ↳ The public body shall make at least one copy of the documents described in paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) available to the public at the meeting to which the documents pertain. As used in this subsection, “proprietary information” has the meaning ascribed to it in NRS 332.025.
- 6. A copy of supporting material required to be provided upon request pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection 5 must be:
 - (a) If the supporting material is provided to the members of the public body before the meeting, made available to the requester at the time the material is provided to the members of the public body; or
 - (b) If the supporting material is provided to the members of the public body at the meeting, made available at the meeting to the requester at the same time the material is provided to the members of the public body.
 - ↳ If the requester has agreed to receive the information and material set forth in subsection 5 by electronic mail, the public body shall, if feasible, provide the information and material by electronic mail.
- 7. A public body may provide the public notice, information and material required by this section by electronic mail. If a public body makes such notice, information and material available by electronic mail, the public body shall inquire of a person who requests the notice, information or material if the person will accept receipt by electronic mail. The inability of a public body, as a result of technical problems with its electronic mail system, to provide a public notice, information or material required by this section to a person who has agreed to receive such notice, information or material by electronic mail shall not be deemed to be a violation of the provisions of this chapter.
- 8. As used in this section, “emergency” means an unforeseen circumstance which requires immediate action and includes, but is not limited to:

NRS 244.085 Regular and additional meetings of board; meetings held outside county seat; meetings with other governing bodies; attendance at conventions, conferences, seminars or hearings.

1. Except as otherwise provided in this section, the meetings of the boards of county commissioners must be held at the county seats of their respective counties, or at a place not more than 10 miles from the county seat within the boundaries of the county, at least once in each calendar month, on a day or days to be fixed by ordinance.

2. If the day fixed by ordinance falls on a Saturday or on a nonjudicial day, the meeting must be held on the next judicial day.

3. The first meeting of the board in odd-numbered years must be held on the first Monday in January, but if the first Monday in January is a nonjudicial day, the meeting must be held on the next judicial day.

4. The meeting day and place as fixed by ordinance must remain unchanged, unless notice of a proposed change is published once a week for 2 consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county.

6. At a meeting held outside the county seat, the board of county commissioners may, in accordance with NRS 241.020, take final action on any matter except zoning or planning matters which relate to a different geographical area than the geographical area in which the meeting is held.

7. The board may meet with the governing body of another governmental unit at any location, including, without limitation, a location outside the county, but the meeting may not be held at a place which is more than 10 miles from the county seat unless the board, in addition to complying with all other requirements for notice of a meeting of the board, provides notice by publication in a newspaper of general circulation within the county, for at least 3 working days before the meeting, of the date, time and place of the meeting. In no case may the board take any official action at such a meeting.

8. Members of the board may attend conventions, conferences, seminars, congressional hearings or other federal hearings to gather specific information or conduct the official business of the association or sponsoring organization at any location if no action is taken by the board in the course of such activity.

COUNTY OF CLARK, BY AND THROUGH ITS BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS, THALIA DONDERO, CHAIRMAN, DAVID CANTER, VICE CHAIRMAN, ROBERT N. BROADBENT, SAM BOWLER, RICHARD RONZONE, MANUEL CORTEZ, AND JACK PETITTI, CONSTITUTING SAID BOARD, AND SHERIFF OF CLARK COUNTY, RALPH J. LAMB, APPELLANTS, V. CITY OF LAS VEGAS, NEVADA, BY AND THROUGH ITS BOARD OF CITY COMMISSIONERS, WILLIAM H. BRIARE, RON LURIE, PAUL J. CHRISTENSEN, ROY WOOFER AND MYRON E. LEAVITT, CONSTITUTING SAID BOARD, RESPONDENTS.

Appeal from order granting partial summary judgment. Eighth Judicial District Court, Clark County; Joseph S. Pavlikowski, Judge. {/History}

Robert J. Miller, District Attorney, Scott W. Doyle, Deputy District Attorney, Clark County, for Appellants.

By the Court, Batjer, J.:

The City of Las Vegas (City) and F. D. Houston, 1 a resident of Las Vegas, Nevada, filed suit for declaratory relief against Clark County (County) challenging the constitutionality of Chapter 280 of the Nevada Revised Statutes. That chapter mandates consolidation of county and city police agencies in any city which is the county seat of a county having a population of 200,000 2 or more. The legislation was first enacted in 1973 and the Legislature has amended portions thereof during each successive legislative session. In the district court the county moved for partial summary judgment based upon its contention that NRS Chapter 280 did not constitute special or local legislation. The City filed a cross-motion for partial summary judgment asking that NRS Chapter 280 be held unconstitutional as a matter of law. The district court granted partial summary judgment for the City, declaring portions of NRS 280.100 and NRS 280.201 to be unconstitutional, granted the County's motion for certification pursuant to NRCP 54(b) and ordered the parties stayed from implementing any changes relating to the partial summary judgment pending appeal. The County claims that the district court erred when it found NRS 280.100 and NRS 280.201 to be special or local legislation prohibited by the Nevada Constitution, art. 4, SS 20, 21 and 25, and therefore unconstitutional.

Legislative enactments enjoy the presumption of constitutionality. The burden is upon the attacking party to show the questioned statute to be unconstitutional.

Anthony v. State of Nevada, 94 Nev. 337, 341, 580 P.2d 939, 941 (1978); Damus v. County of Clark, 93 Nev. 512, 516, 569 P.2d 933, 935 (1977); Viale v. Foley, 76 Nev. 149, 152, 350 P.2d 721, 722 (1960). 1. The district court declared NRS 280.100 to be unconstitutional as originally enacted because it included the date of July 1, 1973. 3 The court found "upon a fair reading" that the date operated as an absolute cutoff beyond which no additional cities or counties would be compelled by law to merge. Since Clark County and Las Vegas were the only entities meeting the requirements on that date, the court found the statute to be impermissible special legislation. This conclusion was erroneous because by Chapter 572 of the 1979 Statutes of Nevada, the legislature deleted the date which, according to the ruling of the district court, rendered NRS 280.100(1) unconstitutional. If the original insertion of "July 1, 1973" into NRS 280.100(1) rendered that section unconstitutional, its deletion by amendment cured the defect. McCormick v. District Court, 69 Nev. 214, 221, 246 P.2d 805, 808 (1952).

Nevada Association of Counties

2. NRS 280.100 mandates consolidation of a county law enforcement agency with the law enforcement agency of a city which is the county seat, if the county's population is 200,000 or more. The district court found NRS 280.100 to be "illusory" because it was not reasonably and rationally related to a legitimate legislative purpose and therefore unconstitutional. This was error. If the Legislature enacts a statute with a population classification which applies to a few counties, or even to one county, it is not necessarily in contravention of the Nevada Constitution, art. 4, SS 20 and 21, which forbids the enactment of local or special laws. Viale v. Foley, supra. If the classification applies prospectively to all counties which might come within its designated class, it is neither local nor special. Reid v. Woofter, 88 Nev. 378, 380, 498 P.2d 361, 367 (1972); Fairbanks v. Pavlikowski, 83 Nev. 80, 83, 423 P.2d 401 (1967).

Nor is such an enactment in violation of the Nevada Constitution, art. 4, S 25, which requires a uniform system of county and township government as long as the use of the population criteria is rationally related to the subject matter and does not create an odious or absurd distinction. Anthony v. State of Nevada, 94 Nev. 338, 341, 580 P.2d 939, 941 (1978). Although the district court correctly found the intended legislative purpose as expressed in Chapter 568 of the 1973 Statutes of Nevada was to reduce duplication of functions and expenses and to coordinate law enforcement efforts throughout the metropolitan areas, it nevertheless went on to determine the legislative purpose would not be served by the population based mandatory merger provisions of NRS 280.100, both as originally enacted and as amended by Chapter 338, 1979 Statutes of Nevada. See NRS 280.010. For nearly a century this court has continued to approve use by the legislature of a population criterion in effecting laws which may nevertheless be deemed general. 4 State v. Donovan, 20 Nev. 75, 15 P. 783 (1887); Damus v. County of Clark, supra; Anthony v. State, supra; accord, Reid v. Woofter, supra. However, the use must be rationally related to the subject matter and must not create odious or absurd distinctions. Anthony v. State of Nevada, supra.

Here, the required consolidation of law enforcement agencies of the county seat and the county within the population limitations is as rationally related to the subject matter and the purpose of the act as were the relationships in the previously decided cases. NRS 280.010. The population limitation is prospectively applicable to all counties and county seats which might come within its designated class. Furthermore, the limitations are neither odious, absurd or bizarre and comport favorably with established law. As a result, we reverse the district court and find NRS 280.100 to be constitutional.

3. We turn now to consider the funding formula and find that NRS 280.201(1)(a) specifies rather than classifies and is therefore constitutionally impermissible and in contravention of Nevada Constitution, art. 4, S 21. State v. Boyd, 19 Nev. 43

(1885); Anthony, supra, at 342, 580 P.2d at 942. The unconstitutional specification did not appear in the original enactment of 1973, 5 but was added in the amendments of 1977 6 and 1979. 7 Because these specifications in the plan for apportionment of expenses, as amended, are unconstitutional, the law as it existed prior to the amendments will be controlling. Johnson v. Goldman, 94 Nev. 6, 9, 575

Continuity of Government (COG) Readiness Analysis Project Report

P.2d 929, 930 (1978). 4. Although both the City and the County, in briefs filed with this court, extensively discuss the question of the constitutionality of those particular sections of Chapter 338, 1979 Statutes of Nevada, which raised the population classification factor from 200,000 to 250,000, that question is not now before us. In the order granting partial summary judgment, the district court specifically found those sections of Chapter 338, 1979 Statutes of Nevada, which change the population classification factor in NRS Chapter 280 from 200,000 to 250,000, to be unconstitutional. The County has chosen not to appeal from that finding, and has specifically conceded the unconstitutionality of the change from 200,000 to 250,000. Upon that issue the partial summary judgment of the district court remains in full force and effect. The judgment of the district court is affirmed in part and reversed in part in conformance with this opinion.

H. Declaration Procedure. 1. When an emergency or disaster is so severe that effective response is beyond the capability of Storey County alone and state or federal assistance is needed to supplement county responses and recovery efforts, the Storey County board of commissioners may, upon declaring a state of emergency in Storey County, request a state of emergency declaration from the Governor of Nevada for the purpose of supporting county efforts. 2. If the disaster is so severe that local and state resources are inadequate to effectively handle it, the Governor may request a presidential emergency or disaster declaration. The procedures are described in the state of Nevada emergency plan. 3. The following are standard procedures for declaring a state of emergency. In cases of obviously severe situations which require immediate support, the Governor has the option of making a state disaster declaration immediately and dispatching damage assessment teams as soon as possible. a. Upon the recommendation of the assistant to the commissioners by majority vote, the Storey County board of commissioners may pass a resolution which declares the county is in a state of emergency (a sample resolution declaring a disaster or emergency and requesting a state disaster declaration follows this list of procedures). b. Upon declaring a state of emergency for Storey County the board of commissioners may request a state emergency declaration to support local response and recovery efforts. This request must be made by notifying the Governor and the Nevada Division of Emergency Management. The Governor shall be notified by the State Emergency Management
